Abstract: Sitti Tiara Febriyanti, NIM 1502045053, with a thesis titled Reasons of the Indonesian Government Did Not Extend the Contract of Total E&P Indonesia (TEPI) and Inpex Corporation in the Mahakam Block in 2015, under the guidance of Enny Febriyanti, S.Pd.MSi as first supervisor and Tedy, S.Sos.MSi as a second supervisor, Department of International Relations, Faculty of Social and Political Sciences, Mulawarman University, 2022. This study aims to analyze the reasons why the Indonesian government did not renew the contract of Total E&P Indonesia (TEPI) and Inpex Corporation in the Mahakam Block in 2015. The data used are primary data types obtained by the writer through direct interviews and secondary data obtained by the writer through literature review from books, journals and internet access that contains data and relevant information to the research. The results showed that the bureaucratic actors which are Ministers of Energy and Mineral Resources, Commission VII DPR RI, the Special Task Force for the Implementation of Upstream Oil and Gas Business Activities (SKK MIGAS) give consideration to influence President Joko Widodo's decision regarding the Mahakam Block contract. However, President Joko Widodo's decision has different reasons and considerations from the inputs and considerations presented by some bureaucratic actors. President Joko Widodo's decision is based on considerations of national energy security and security, saving foreign exchange, increasing dividends for the country, domestic political stability and for the formation of an image that is not pro to foreign parties.
